BATTLESHIP FLAG GIVEN TO THE STATE

Placed in Safe-Keeping Until

GOVERNOR ACCEPTS

Exercises Held at the Roosevelt Cabin on the State Capitol Grounds Here

The flag of the battleship North Dakota, which was presented to the state of North Dakota at an impressive Navy Day observance at the Roosevelt cabin on the Capitol grounds this noon.

Lewis F. Crawford, curator at the state historical society, made the presentation of the flag in behalf of naval veterans of the World War and Gov. R. A. Nestos as representative of the people of the state spoke in acceptance. Secretary of State Thomas Hall presided at the meeting.

Navy ex-servicemen in their blue uniforms, Vere Spohn, Neal Vogel, Ray Inseth, Carl Munson, Robert Dohn, Martin Glorvigen, and Oscar Routsous, approached the cabin carrying the huge flag to the speaker's platform, opening the program. As they approached St. Mary's school band broke into the strains of "America." At the close of the national anthem Dr. Joseph Eyrsson of St. George's Episcopal church made an invocation.

Flag Presented
Lewis F. Crawford, presenting the flag to the safe-keeping of the state, referred to the scrapping of battleships under the naval limitations agreement, the battleship North Dakota being one of these scrapped.

"This flag has recently seen service in the great World War. To all outward appearance, this flag is like other U. S. flags but for one. It has richer associations. The mission that brings this flag to us is unique. It represents a hope to a war-weary world; it represents a last word for the hungry and a coat for the naked. The ideal which it typifies will never be dead, to the cries of anguish. That war may be banished is not a hope but a conviction; not a dream of a theorist, but a vital principle now being affirmed by practical statesmen, and is here exemplified.

Governor Nestos, chief executive of our commonwealth, in behalf of the U. S. Navy, and in the presence of the representative citizenry of our state, we present you this flag from the Dreadnought North Dakota, which is to be dismantled. This flag comes to you laden with clinging memories as a participant in the World War in which there were more battle deaths than in all wars since Joshua blew the ram's horn before the gates of Jericho. It comes to you, not humiliated, defeated, dishonored; but elevated, exalted, glorified in this great victory of the spirit of peace over the spirit of war. We cannot see what is in the future; we can only hope. We like to think of our country as a leader in the peace movement of the world. If we reach our highest destiny, we must have exalted ideals and be true to them.

"With relying faith in the integrity and honor of our country, we deposit this flag with you as the first rich fruitage of a practical effort to catch up with the enlightened conscience of mankind, the herald light and the bearer of a love that we hope, will usher in the parliament of man the federation of the world.

Governor Accepts

"It is a great pleasure as well as an honor in behalf of the people of the state to accept the loan of this flag of the Battleship North Dakota, particularly so as this occasion is symbolic of the first movement looking toward the establishment of world peace and good will toward men," said Gov. Nestos in accepting the flag.

"This flag is a symbol of peace at the close of a splendid career by the North Dakota in preserving the honor of the nation," asserted the speaker.

"We value the flag more because it will represent to the boys and girls of North Dakota the high ideals of a nation," he said and it will be a constant reminder to them for what the nation has stood. It will remind them of the character and life of the greatest of all American statesmen who spent the early days of his life in this vicinity, namely, since the occasion of this acceptance is Navy and Roosevelt Day."

In conclusion Governor Nestos stated that he accepted the loan of the flag in behalf of the people of the state and would place it in an appropriate place in the state house. The girls from the Indian school who were present in a body led the singing of "North Dakota" by Frank Dale at the conclusion of the speaking and the D. A. R. served the members of the American Legion with doughnuts and coffee in the Roosevelt cabin at the close of the exercises.

NAVY A BIG FACTOR IN AID TO PROGRESS, SAYS ROOSEVELT

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

By Harry B. Hunt

Washington, Oct. 27.—"Navy Day," Oct. 27.

Placards and posters with this cryptic message are plastered all over our towns and cities—east, west, north and south. What does it mean? Wasn't our whole navy program and policy settled two years ago by the Conference on Limitation of Armament?

Seeking the answer to these questions at the source, I went to see Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy during the absence, with an injured foot, of Secretary Denby. Navy Day, by the way, also is the birthday anniversary of Roosevelt's famous father, the great "Teddy."

"What's this Navy Day thing?" I inquired. "Why is Navy Day? What is it? What's the big idea behind the whole thing?"

The acting secretary grinned at a typically Rooseveltian smile.

"Fine!" he exclaimed. "You're asking just the questions we want everybody to ask. Smoke a cigar? Got a match?"

Matches and cigars traded and the smokes going good Roosevelt got down to cases.

Educational
"Navy Day," he said, "is a day set aside specially for informing the public on the importance and needs of the navy. It is a day to enter the interest of citizens everywhere in the middle west and west as well as along the coasts—on the subject of our naval development."

"Prior to the conference on naval limitation, our naval programs were always shaped by the tug-of-war between the big and the little navy folks; between those who wanted us to have incomparably the strongest navy on earth and those who wanted virtually no navy at all."

"The arms conference, for the first time, gave us a definite mark at which to aim. It committed us to a definite naval policy—that of a navy equal to Great Britain's and 40 per cent larger than any other navy."

Navy Unbalanced
"At this time we have not got a treaty navy. Our naval strength is not balanced. We lack essential elements, including mine-laying submarines, scout submarines, scout cruisers and certain modernized equipment on board our capital ships. Our mission is now to create a balanced and adequate treaty navy. We will undertake no building plans in the unrestricted classes which might be said to reopen naval competition, but we must endeavor to put ourselves on a parity with the ratio allowed us."

"Of course the prime reason for a navy is defense. Our navy is the shield which prevents an enemy from striking at our vitals. It is also the right arm of the State Department, visualizing and translating its policies into action."

"But as an aid to civilian progress the navy also is a tremendous factor. Andrew Carnegie once said that the navy was responsible for the development of the vast steel industry in this country."

"The navy was the parent of the terrific radio development of the past few years. The first broadcasting was done by the navy from Arlington as long ago as 1905. The development of radio has been in no small part due to the constant experimentation of the navy."

Navy By-Products
"The same in aircraft. Army and navy experimentation and developments promise to be invaluable to the development of aircraft for civilian uses. I look to the day when aircraft will be a tremendous commercial asset, and the navy and army more than any other agencies are bringing that day forward. Along the whole path of our progress, it is astounding the number of milestones that have been checked off by the navy. While defense has been the prime object, the civilian by-products that have resulted from naval experimentation and study have in themselves been worth our whole naval expenditures!"

"The lesson of Navy Day? It is this:

"Our freedom, the safety of our families, the institutions we prize, all depend on the navy. We must maintain a proper defense."

"For the sake of our children and their children's children we must build up and then properly maintain our treaty navy. It is my hope that Navy Day will help spread the understanding of that need."

WALTON TRIAL SCHEDULED TO BE THURSDAY

Bill Against Him Completes
House Work of Bringing Impeachment

START NEW PROBES

Other State Departments and
Officials to Come Under
Official Scrutiny

Oklahoma City, Oct. 27.—With the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton scheduled to begin next Thursday the house investigating committee which submitted charges of misconduct against the chief executive today planned to extend its inquiry to other officials and departments of state.

Declaring their work had just started with the completion of the case against the Governor the members of the committee said the farthest corners of the state will be searched to make the investigation complete. No condition which the committee finds will be "white washed," they added.

The committee already has before it a resolution requesting investigation of the office of John Whitehurst, president of the State Board of Agriculture, and it is predicted by close followers of the situation that other state officials will be made the subject of possible impeachment proceedings. Its next session will be held Monday.

The senate court of impeachment ordered Governor Walton to trial next Thursday after the lower house yesterday had approved the last of the 22 charges which constitute the impeachment bill.

All the charges come under the general allegation of misconduct in office, moral turpitude, willful neglect of duty and incompetency.

In setting the trial date the senate court allowed the executive six days in which to answer the charges and enter his plea. If these conditions are complied with before the presiding time has elapsed the court said the trial would begin at once.

A board of house members will act as the prosecution. Governor Walton refused early today to comment on the proceedings, declaring only that "the entire matter is in the hands of my attorneys."

ISSUES STATEMENT

Oklahoma City, Oct. 27.—Charging that not only the Oklahoma House but also "practically every department of state" is controlled by the Ku Klux Klan, Governor J. C. Walton in a statement today declared the present question in the state was not "Should I be impeached? but shall government as handed to us by patriots in the past continue to exist?"

WASHINGTON SEES HOPE IN EUROPE SNARL

Believes That Acceptance of Gowers Opens Way to Solve Reparations

U. S. WILL TAKE PART

Developments of Past 24
Hours Believed to Assure
Participation

Washington, Oct. 27.—Hopesful that indicated acceptance by France, Italy and Belgium of British proposals for an advisory study by an international commission of experts of Germany's capacity to pay had definitely opened a way toward solution of the reparations tangle, Washington officials today awaited the further formulation of plans presumably under way at the European capital.

Developments of the past 24 hours were said authoritatively to have been such as to make it appear a virtual certainty that America would be represented on the proposed commission by experts named with the approval of the Washington government. How far the European governments involved had proceeded toward a complete agreement, however, was a matter which it was apparently expected would be clarified by some official announcement from London.

FRENCH ACCEPTANCE

Paris, Oct. 27.—The French government has accepted the British proposal for an examination into Germany's capacity to pay reparations. It is regarded in diplomatic circles that Premier Poincare has thus avoided a bad tangle in France's international relations for yesterday, when the American note and Prime Minister Baldwin's speech were published here, he appeared to be beset on all sides.

Defied by the German chancellor in a speech which was regarded as promising prolongation and intensification of the troubles with the reich, and summoned by his allied associates to accept the principle of a conference which he had hitherto steadily rejected, the French premier seemed to have been isolated, if not cornered.

His prompt acceptance of one of the alternative proposals made by the British prime minister clears the atmosphere, and while nothing is expected by French officials to come from a re-estimate of Germany's capacity, France will have at least avoided the appearance of hanging back on a proposal approved by the American government.

Confusion on Reply

The first impression regarding M. Poincare's reply was that it practically rejected Mr. Baldwin's proposal, since it limited the constitution of the examining commission by putting the nominations up to the reparations commission, which was tantamount to rejecting the idea of a conference of plenipotentiaries named by the various governments.

When it transpired later that there were alternative projects in the British proposals, one for an international conference of plenipotentiaries and the other for a committee to be named by the reparations commission, it was seen that the premier's reply constituted an acceptance.

A high official of the foreign office tonight declared that M. Poincare's decision was largely influenced by the American approval of the project. France, he added, was particularly happy to welcome and facilitate all she could such participation by the United States in settlement of the European tangle as the American government saw fit to undertake.

It is regarded as possible that the Germans may decide to ask for a hearing by the special commission of experts instead of pursuing their request that they be heard by the international reparations commission.

GIRL SHOT BY UNKNOWN; SEEK FOR MOTIVE

South Dakota Girl Is Shot as
She Goes to Door to
Empty Dishpan

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 27.—The mystery surrounding the shooting of Mathilde Doyne at Clark last night was solved today at noon in the girl's own admission to states attorney W. C. Brower that she shot herself.

She said she wished to take her own life because of her condition on attempts to make to ascertain the reason for her act.

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 27.—Authorities at Clark today are investigating the mysterious shooting of Miss Mathilde Doyne, daughter of a prominent farmer, residing three miles west of Clark, early last evening. According to her own story a man whose face was covered fired at her as she emptied a dishpan at the back door of her home. The bullet penetrated her right arm below the shoulder.

The girl said a man named Weber is the only person who could have reason to attack her. Weber was arrested in Watertown last night but furnished an alibi and was released.

State's Attorney Brower today identified the revolver found near the house as belonging to the girl's brother. No suspicion yet attaches to him, the state's attorney said.

Separatists Say They Can

Duesseldorf, Oct. 27.—Food and unemployment riots accompanied by pillaging and resulting in clashes with the authorities are reported from various towns throughout the Ruhr. There were many casualties in some cases, 30 persons being killed and 15 wounded at Bochum and five killed at Duisburg.

The rioting at Bochum, which has hitherto been relatively free from such disorders, was declared by officials to have been inspired by outside agitators. The casualties came when the German police fired into the mob.

The trouble at Duisburg arose when surprised by a patrol the rioters shot and wounded a detective. Belgian troops were called out and opened fire on the pillagers.

Coblenz, Germany, Oct. 27.—(By the A. P.)—The Rhineland Republic, made stronger by the approval of the Franco-Belgian authorities, is devoting itself to extension and organization.

The provisional government at Coblenz has set up a ministry of finance, Joseph Mathias, premier, although he prefers to be called "executive commissioner."

The other portfolios have been assigned as follows:
Harry Von Metzen, foreign minister; Herr Wolterhoff, minister of finance; Herr Liebing, minister of the interior; Father Kremers, minister of instruction and public transport; Herr Mueller, minister of justice and agriculture.

With the exception of Father Kremers, who is a Roman Catholic priest, the ministers are lawyers. Herr Wolterhoff has prepared a plan for issuance of sound money to extend to one million gold francs and to be secured on a complicated system of mortgages on unhypothecated real estate.

The Republic leaders are hoping that the allies will consent to transform the first mortgage on the railway on the Versailles treaty into a second mortgage in the consideration of 350 billion gold francs.

STUNNED CONFERS

Berlin, Oct. 27.—Hitler and other representatives of German industry after conferring with Chancellor Stresemann have reopened negotiations in the Ruhr with General DeGoutte, the French occupation chief. The continuation of operations in the Ruhr plants depends on the result of these discussions.

Through the central western part of the state, or territory between the Jim and Missouri rivers, generally classed as western North Dakota, some of the counties showing decreases in acreage insured, between 1921 and 1922 follow: Burleigh, 328,159 to 212,241; McLean, 397,175 to 154,554; Kidder, 206,430 to 129,530; McHenry, 292,973 to 101,103; Sheridan, 165,554 to 74,561.

Other counties east of these showing decreases include: Stutsman, 521,549 to 424,141; Barnes, 284,333 to 187,859; Foster, 230,804 to 158,933; Rogers, 250,739 to 97,121; LaMoure, 361,535 to 263,135. Dickey county showed an increase.

Counties in the extreme eastern part of the state all show decreases in the amount of insurance carried, comparing the years 1921 and 1922. They include: Cass, 299,218 to 123,564; Benson, 327,263 to 180,799; Grand Forks, 249,734 to 95,117; Walsh, 166,707 to 79,963; Traill, 206,540 to 90,493; Richland, 123,627 to 40,568.

The decrease in the insured acreage is reflected in the situation the State Hail Insurance Department finds itself this year, for while the total losses allowed in 1922 amount to $4,658,331, the total losses in 1921 exceeded this amount, being $4,733,593. The decrease in the business done by the state department, insured acreage—has resulted in pushing up the rate to the maximum of 50 cents, together with other causes.

The flag of the battleship North Dakota, under the naval limitations treaty was presented to the state of North Dakota at an impressive Navy Day observance at the Roosevelt cabin on the Capitol grounds this morning.

As they approached St. Mary's school band broke into the strains of "America." At the close of the national anthem, Dr. Joseph Ryerson of St. Georges Episcopal church made an invocation.

Flag Presented

Lewis F. Crawford, presenting the flag to the safe-keeping of the state, referred to the scrapping of battleships under the naval limitations agreement, the battleship North Dakota being one of those scrapped.

"This flag has recently seen service in the great World War. Like all outward appearance, this flag is like other U. S. flags, but for us it has richer associations. The mission that brings this flag to us is unique. It represents a hope to a war-weary world; it represents a loaf for the hungry and a coat for the naked. "Governor Nestos, chief executive of our commonwealth, on behalf of the U. S. This flag comes to you laden with clinging memories as a participant in the World War in which there were more battle deaths than in all wars since Joshua blew the ram's horn before the gates of Jericho. "With relying faith in the integrity and honor of our country, we deposit this flag with you as the first rich fruitage of a practical effort to catch up with the enlightened conscience of mankind, the herald light and bearer of a love that, we hope, will usher in the parliament of man the federation of the world.

Governor Accepts

"It is a great pleasure as well as an honor in behalf of the people of the state to accept the loan of this flag of the Battleship North Dakota, particularly so as this occasion is symbolic of the first movement looking toward the establishment of world peace and good will toward men," said Gov. Nestos in accepting the flag.

"This flag is a symbol of peace at the close of a splendid career by the North Dakota in preserving the honor of the nation," asserted the speaker.

"We value the flag more because it will represent to the boys and girls of North Dakota the high ideals of a nation," he said, and it will be a constant reminder to them for what the nation has stood. It will remind them of the character and life of the greatest of all American statesmen who spent the early days of his life in this vicinity, ranging, since the occasion of this acceptance is Navy and Roosevelt Day.

In conclusion Governor Nestos stated that he accepted the loan of the flag in behalf of the people of the state and would place it in an appropriate place in the statehouse. The girls from the Indian school who were present in a body led the singing of "North Dakota" by Frank and the D. A. R. served the members of the American Legion will doughnuts and coffee in the Roosevelt cabin at the close of the exercises, a beautiful and historic occasion.

NAVY A BIG FACTOR IN AID TO PROGRESS, SAYS ROOSEVELT

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Oct. 27.—"Navy Day, Oct. 27." Placards and posters with this cryptic message are plastered all over our towns and cities—east, west, north and south. What does it mean? Wasn't our whole navy program and policy settled two years ago by the Conference on Limitation of Armament?

Seeking the answer to these questions at the source, I went to see Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of navy during the absence, with an injured foot, of Secretary Denby. Navy Day, by the way, also is the birthday anniversary of Roosevelt's famous father, the great "Teddy."

"What's this Navy Day thing?" I inquired. "Why is Navy Day? What is it? What's the big idea behind the whole thing?"

The acting secretary grinned a typically Roosevelt smile. "Fine!" he exclaimed. "You're asking just the questions we want everybody to ask. Smoke a cigar? Got a match?"

Matches and cigars traded and the smokes going good Roosevelt got down to cases.

"Navy Day," he said, "is a day set aside specially for informing the public on the importance and needs of the navy. It is a day to catch the interest of citizens everywhere—in the middle west and west as well as along the coasts—on the subject of our naval development."

"Prior to the conference on naval limitation, our naval programs were always shaped by the tug-of-war between the big and the little navy folks; between those who wanted us to have incomparably the strongest navy on earth and those who wanted virtually no navy at all."

"The arms conference, for the first time, gave us a definite mark at which to aim. It committed us to a definite naval policy—that of a navy equal to Great Britain's and 40 per cent larger than any other navy."

Navy Unbalanced

"At this time we have not got a treaty navy. Our naval strength is not balanced. We lack essential elements, including mine-laying submarines, scout submarines, scout cruisers and certain modernized equipment on board our capital ships. Our mission is now to create a balanced and adequate treaty navy. We will undertake no building plans in the unrestricted classes which might be said to reopen naval competition, but we must endeavor to put ourselves on a parity with the ratio allowed us."

"Of course the prime reason for a navy is defense. Our navy is the shield which prevents an enemy from striking at our vitals. It is also the right arm of the State Department, visualizing and translating its policies into action."

"But as an aid to civilian progress the navy also is a tremendous factor. Andrew Carnegie once said that the navy was responsible for the development of the vast steel industry in this country."

"The navy was the parent of the terrific radio development of the past few years. The first broadcasting was done by the navy from Arlington as long ago as 1905. The development of radio has been in no small part due to the constant experimentation of the navy."

Navy By-Products

"The same in aircraft. Army and navy experimentation and development promise to be invaluable to the development of aircraft for civilian uses. I look to the day when aircraft will be a tremendous commercial asset, and the navy and army more than any other agencies are bringing that day forward. Along the whole path of our progress, it is astounding the number of milestones that have been checked off by the navy. While defense has been the prime object, the civilian by-products that have resulted from naval experimentation and study have in themselves been worth our whole naval expenditures!"

"The lesson of Navy Day? It is this: 'Our freedom, the safety of our families, the institutions we prize, all demand that we maintain a proper defense.'"

"For the sake of our children and their children's children we must build up and then properly maintain our treaty navy. It is my hope that Navy Day will help spread the understanding of that need."

WALTON TRIAL SCHEDULED TO BE THURSDAY

Bill Against Him Completes
House Work of Bringing
Impeachment

START NEW PROBES

Other State Departments and
Officials to Come Under
Official Scrutiny

Oklahoma City, Oct. 27.—With the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton scheduled to begin next Thursday the house investigating committee which submitted charges of misconduct against the chief executive today planned to extend its inquiry to other officials and departments of state.

Declaring their work had just started with the completion of the case against the Governor the members of the committee said the farther reaches of the state will be searched to make the investigation complete. No condition which the committee finds will be "white washed," they added.

The committee already has before it a resolution requesting investigation of the office of John Whitehurst, president of the State Board of Agriculture, and it is predicted by close followers of the situation that other state officials will be made the subject of possible impeachment proceedings. Its next session will be held Monday.

The senate court of impeachment ordered Governor Walton to trial next Thursday after the lower house late yesterday had approved the last of the 22 charges which constitute the impeachment bill.

All the charges come under the general allegation of misconduct in office, moral turpitude, willful neglect of duty and incompetency.

In setting the trial date the senate court allowed the executive six days in which to answer the charges and enter his plea. If these conditions are complied with before the prescribed time has elapsed the court said the trial would begin at once.

A board of house members will act as the prosecution.

Governor Walton refused early today to comment on the proceedings, declaring only that "the entire matter is in the hands of my attorneys."

ISSUES STATEMENT

Oklahoma City, Oct. 27.—Charging that not only the Oklahoma House but also "practically every department of state" is controlled by the Ku Klux Klan, Governor J. C. Walton in a statement today declared the present commission in the state was not "Shall I be impeached? but shall government as handed to us by patriots in the past continue to exist?"

WASHINGTON SEES HOPE IN EUROPE SNARL

Believes That Acceptance of Bowers Opens Way to Solve Reparations

U. S. WILL TAKE PART

Developments of Past 24
Hours Believed to Assure
Participation

Washington, Oct. 27.—Hopeful that indicated acceptance by France, Italy and Belgium of British proposals for an advisory study by an international commission of experts of Germany's capacity to pay had definitely opened a way toward solution of the reparations tangle, Washington officials today awaited the further formulation of plans presumably under way at the European capitals.

Developments of the past 24 hours were said authoritatively to have been such as to make it appear a virtual certainty that America would be represented on the proposed commission by experts named with the approval of the Washington government. How far the European governments involved had proceeded toward a complete agreement, however, was a matter which it was apparently expected would be clarified by some official announcement from London.

FRENCH ACCEPTANCE

Paris, Oct. 27.—The French government has accepted the British proposal for an examination into Germany's capacity to pay reparations. It is regarded in diplomatic circles that Premier Poincare has thus avoided a bad turning in France's international relations, for yesterday, when the American note and Prime Minister Baldwin's speech were published here, he appeared to be beset on all sides.

Defied by the German chancellor in a speech which was regarded as precluding prolongation and intensification of the troubles with the reich, and summoned by his allied associates to accept the principle of a conference which he had hitherto steadily rejected, the French premier seemed to have been isolated, if not cornered.

His prompt acceptance of one of the alternative proposals made by the British prime minister clears the atmosphere, and while nothing is expected by French officials to come from the examination of Germany's capacity, France will have at least avoided the appearance of hanging back on a proposal approved by the American government.

Confusion on Reply

The first impression regarding M. Poincare's reply was that it practically rejected Mr. Baldwin's proposal, since it limited the constitution of the examining commission by putting the nominations up to the reparations commission, which was tantamount to rejecting the idea of a conference of plenipotentiaries named by the various governments.

When it transpired later that there were alternative projects in the British proposals, one for an international conference of plenipotentiaries and the other for a committee to be named by the reparations commission, it was seen that the premier's reply constituted an acceptance.

A high official of the foreign office tonight declared that M. Poincare's decision was largely influenced by the American approval of the project. France, he added, was particularly happy to welcome and facilitate all she could such participation by the United States in settlement of the European tangle as the American government saw fit to undertake.

It is regarded as possible that the Germans may decide to ask for a re-estimate of the special commission of experts instead of pursuing their re-drafting which they heard by the inter-allied reparations commission.

GIRL SHOT BY UNKNOWN; SEEK FOR MOTIVE

South Dakota Girl Is Shot as
She Goes to Door to
Empty Dishpan

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 27.—The mystery surrounding the shooting of Mathilde Doyna at Clark last night was solved today at noon in the girl's own admission to states attorney W. C. Brower that she shot herself. She said she wished to take her own life. Owing to her condition no attempt was made to ascertain the reason for her act.

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 27.—Authorities at Clark today are investigating the mysterious shooting of Miss Mathilde Doyna, daughter of a prominent farmer, residing three miles west of Clark, early last evening. According to her own story a man whose face was covered fired at her as she emptied a dishpan at the back door of her home. The bullet penetrated her right arm below the shoulder.

The girl said a man named Weber is the only person who could have a reason to attack her. Weber was arrested in Watertown last night but furnished an alibi and was released. State's Attorney Brower today identified the revolver found near the house as belonging to the girl's brother. No suspicion yet attaches to him, the state's attorney said.

DECREASE IN HAIL ACREAGE FOUND GENERAL

Counties in Western Part as Well as as Eastern Part
Show Risks Carried Less

SOME OF THEM GAIN

Decrease in the insurance carried with the State Hail Insurance Department is recorded in most counties of the state in the last two years. A popular belief that the decrease in the number of acres insured with the state department by farmers is due to withdrawals in Red River counties alone is exploded by an examination of the reports of the State Hail Insurance Department for the year 1921 and the year 1923.

The number of acres insured in the state department for $7.00 an acre insurance decreased from 11,364,481 to 7,748,407 from 1921 to 1923. The decrease of 3,616,074 acres insured in two years is almost one-third of the total acreage insured in 1921. The decrease was divided about 15 per cent from 1921 to 1922, and the same percentage from 1922 to 1923.

Decrease in the number of acres insured is shown in all but a few of the counties of the state. A marked decrease in the number of acres insured is shown in 40 counties.

Big Decreases

In the Northwestern part of the state, regarded as a fertile field for hail insurance, Bottineau, Burke, Divide, Renville, Rollette, Ward and Williams counties show a decrease in the number of acres insured. The comparison for the years 1921 and 1923, on $7 an acre insurance, in these counties, is in acres as follows:

County	1921	1923
Bottineau	352,801	239,019
Burke	263,667	167,364
Divide	291,256	254,570
Renville	238,899	185,109
Rollette	96,023	63,667
Ward	441,927	243,341
Williams	376,652	370,853

In the northwestern part of the state hail insurance increased from 1921 to 1923 in Mountain county from 204,838 acres to 213,184 acres and in McKenzie county from 133,030 to 163,777.

In the southwestern part of the state among the counties showing big decreases in insured acreages between 1921 and 1923 are:

County	1921	1923
Hettinger	166,076	148,609
Mercer	190,750	132,658
Morton	204,838	150,184
Grant	206,428	177,374
Slope	168,810	137,701

Some Show Increase

Among the counties in this section showing an increase in insured acreage between 1921 and 1923 are:

County	1921	1923
McHenry	292,878	307,175
Kidder	206,430	229,530
McLean	897,175	1,010,103
Sheridan	165,584	245,681

Other counties east of these showing decreases include: Stutsman, 521,540 to 424,141; Barnes, 284,333 to 187,839; Foster, 230,894 to 166,833; Griggs, 230,739 to 97,121; LaMoure, 361,665 to 263,136. Dickey county showed an increase.

Counties in the extreme eastern part of the state all show decreases in the amount of insurance carried, comparing the years 1921 and 1923. They include: Cass, 299,218 to 123,664; Benson, 327,863 to 180,799; Grand Fork, 249,756 to 95,117; Walsh, 166,707 to 79,963; Teton, 206,540 to 90,493; Richland, 123,627 to 40,668.

The decrease in the insured acreage is reflected in the situation the State Hail Insurance Department finds itself this year, for while the total losses allowed in 1923 amount to $4,662,881, the total losses in 1921 exceeded this amount, being $4,768,593. The decrease in the business done by the state department—insured acreage—has resulted in pushing up the rate to the maximum of 50 cents, together with other causes.

Separatists Say They Can

Desire

Duesseldorf, Oct. 27.—Food and unemployment riots accompanied by pillaging and resulting in clashes with the authorities are reported from various towns throughout the Ruhr. There were many casualties in some cases, 20 persons being killed and 15 wounded at Bochum and five killed at Duisburg. The rioting at Bochum, which has hitherto been relatively free from such disorders, was declared by officials to have been inspired by outside agitators. The casualties came when the German police fired into the mob.

The trouble at Duisburg arose when surprised by a patrol the rioters shot and wounded a detective. Belgian troops were called out and opened fire on the pillagers.

Coblenz, Germany, Oct. 27.—(By the A. P.)—The Rhineland Republic, made stronger by the approval of the Franco-Belgian authorities, is devoting itself to extension and organization.

The provisional government at Coblenz has set up a ministry at which Joseph Mathes is premier, although he prefers to be called "executive commissioner."

The other portfolios have been assigned as follows:

Herr Von Metz, foreign minister; Herr Wolterhoff, minister of finance; Herr Loebing, minister of the interior; Herr Krenner, minister of instruction and public worship; Herr Mueller, minister of transport; Herr Kieber, minister of justice and agriculture.

With the exception of Father Krenner, who is a Roman Catholic priest, the ministers are lawyers.

Herr Wolterhoff has prepared a plan for issuance of sound money to extend to one million gold francs. A complicated system of mortgages on unhyphenated real estate and the railroads. The Republican leaders are hoping that the allies will consent to transform the first mortgage on the railway on the Versailles treaty into a second mortgage in the consideration of 350 billion gold francs.

STUNNED CONFERS

Berlin, Oct. 27.—Hugo Stinnes and other representatives of German industry after conferring with Chancellor Stresemann have responded negotiations in the Ruhr with General DeGoutte, the French occupation chief. The continuation of operations in the Ruhr plants depends on the result of these discussions.

(By the Associated Press.)

Duren, Oct. 27.—The separatists in the North Rhineland say that they have successfully established positions at Aix La Chapelle, Crefeld, Bonn, and other points. It is now possible, the leaders assert, to extend the Republican lines wherever such operations are deemed opportune.

The military leaders talked openly of plans to storm the town halls at Neuss, Gladbach and other places including Duesseldorf. They predicted that the Republican color will be hoisted over the Rathaus at Duisburg today.

DANNER GUILTY OF MURDER

Defendant Unconcerned as Jury Returns Its Verdict

Bosman, Oct. 27.—Seth O. Danner was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death by the jury which returned its verdict at 11:20 o'clock last night. The defendant did not look at the jury as it filed into the room or afterward and with apparent unconcern walked out under guard of four deputy sheriffs. Danner was charged with the murder of Mrs. John Sprague of Medicine, D. D.

The nine farmers, a painter, a drayman and the foreman of a cement factory, who comprise the jury, heard in the argument of counsel, Danner described both as a murderer without other than average feelings, and as a somewhat glib, chivalrous husband who besides entertaining an affection for his wife felt as kindly toward his frail 11 year old daughter as toward his wife. He was charged with the killing rather than as a witness stand, for fear of her health.

STATE WOOL IN POOL TO BE HELD SOON

Total Amount on Hand Is 412,267 Pounds, Most of It
Is High Grade Wool

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 25.—Wool in the North Dakota state pool has been graded and will be offered for sale immediately, according to a decision made at a recent meeting of the Federation of North Dakota Wool Growers.

Reports were received showing the net weight of graded wool to be 412,267 pounds. Average shrinkage on grades has been accurately determined, in the report, and sample lines have been submitted to leading mills of the country with requests for bids, according to reports received at the meeting.

Eighty per cent of the wool in the pool is of 8-8 and quarter blood, and the remaining 20 is divided about equally between tower and high grades.

The directors anticipate that sale of the pool can probably be accomplished within a month, declares J. W. Haw, state county agent leader, who addressed the meeting, "and further it is expected that complete settlement with the grower will be made just as soon as complete sales are consummated, the proceeds from sales received and the returns pro-rated on the various grades in the pool."

Plans were made for a thorough canvass of sheep growers of the state this winter season, looking toward a larger pool in 1924. Three-year contracts will be urged as essential to the permanency of the pool.

U. S. DRY VIEW IS ACCEPTED

London, Oct. 25.—The British government has accepted in principle the proposal of the American government that vessels in American waters be drawn up plans which would allow liquor within 12 miles of the American shore.

The export committee of the imperial conference which has been studying the question under the chairmanship of Foreign Secretary Curzon has drawn up plans which are believed to meet the essential points of the American request. The plans will be submitted next week to the full conference, which is expected to approve them.

U. S. IS READY TO AID BUT IS CAUTIOUS

Won't Send Delegates to Conference of Empty Chairs, Secretary Indicates

Washington, Oct. 25.—Although the American government stands ready to enter a European reparations conference, having a full attendance of allied powers, it is not willing to agree beforehand to a meeting at which there might be empty chairs.

Thus in substance Secretary Hughes' reply to the latest overture from abroad for American intervention to untangle the international snarl over the collection of war indemnity from Germany. For the moment, officials are content not to elaborate the Secretary's pronouncement or predict what effect it may have on the British effort to obtain some semblance of a world-wide effort to solve the ills of Europe.

There were indications today, however, that with the subject reopened important developments might come, but what should be their direction no one cared to predict.

FIND OIL TAX NOT PAID; OVER $4,600 ADDED

New Head of State Pure Food and Chemist Department Puts Money in Coffers

A campaign inaugurated since he took charge of the state regulatory department July 1 has resulted in an increase in the number of oil companies reporting sales for tax and the discovery of unpaid tax amounting to $4,622.63 and fees of $229.51, according to a report to the state board of administration by R. O. Baird, state food commissioner and chemist. Mr. Baird took charge of the newly constituted department created by the legislature. Similar work previously had been under C. P. Guthrie.

During the first part of July a campaign was inaugurated to secure reports from each railway station in the state of kerosene and gasoline shipments made into North Dakota. Mr. Baird said. Generally speaking he received fine cooperation.

Through checks made it was discovered that considerable gasoline and kerosene had not been reported for the state tax, and $3,622.63 was collected, in addition to $229.51 in fees.

"This shows that there were over 40 cars which had not been reported, which were checked by the system used," Mr. Baird reported. "The first part of July when I took charge of the office of the State Food Commissioner there were 52 oil companies making reports to this Department. We now have on our list 81 companies doing business. Several of these are new companies but the large percentage were doing business in the state at that time."

"We are making this report to show that the method of securing the report of kerosene and gasoline shipments into North Dakota has been successful."

COUNTY LEVY NOT FIXED; BUDGET CUT

Commissioners Paring It In Hope of Keeping Expenses Down to Last Year's

The tax rate for Burleigh county has not yet been fixed by County Auditor Johnson.

The commissioners, after adopting a tentative budget, started in to revise it, cutting it and shaving it in an effort to keep the tax levy down.

The tentative budget now stands at $268,271. This includes $225,000 for sinking fund and interest on $125,000 of funding bonds that the commissioners have agreed to issue to take up outstanding warrants. Further discussion and development may result in the bonds not being issued, which would cut the levy to $224,271.

The budget in the county last year was $214,032, and before the revision is completed the commissioners hope to avoid an increase. There will be increases in the state and city tax levies.

Vinegar Means Many Things To Pure Food Man

Fargo, Oct. 27.—"Vinegar" means simply that and nothing more to the average housewife, but to the State Commissioner, R. O. Baird, this term may mean anyone of a half-dozen products which vary materially in value. Baird has issued a statement calling attention to the recent regulation of his Department providing that all vinegar, whether sold in bulk or bottle, must be labeled.

"Apple and cider vinegar are synonymous terms, and according to the regulation, any material labeled 'vinegar' should fall into this class," Mr. Baird declares. "Other kinds of vinegar are wine of grape, malt, sugar, glucose and spirit, distilled or grain. Any of these must be labeled as such when offered for sale."

"There is a considerable difference in the cost of manufacturing these various kinds of vinegar, apple being the highest and distilled the lowest. While there may be some argument as to whether there is any difference in the merits of these different vinegars, the housewife is entitled to know what kind of vinegar she is getting and she should not pay as high a price for the vinegars having a lower cost of manufacture."

"All vinegar must contain a minimum of 4 per cent acetic acid, according to Mr. Baird, and fancy sparkling vinegar contains 5 per cent. Apple and sugar vinegars are the kinds most commonly sold in North Dakota, wholesalers report."

Indian Pleads Guilty To Forgery

Minot, Oct. 27.—Artes City Magistrate Duell has remanded Albert Hopkins and John Garfield to the district court for trial on charges of third degree forgery. Hopkins told Sheriff Butten that he is ready to plead guilty to having cashed over $400 in checks using the name of M. J. Kirk. It is probable that he will be brought before District Judge C. W. Buttz for arraignment. Garfield insists he is innocent of the crime charged against him, telling Judge Duell that he only cashed one check given him by Hopkins, although he admits endorsing it with the name of Joe Walking uil. Both men are Indians and were arrested in Montana.

Milton, N. D., Oct. 27.—Karl Rank, believed to be the largest man who ever lived in North Dakota and who came to this state in 1879, died 30 years ago at Belmont, according to a story in the 30 years ago column of the Milton Globe. His coffin, specially made, measured 7 feet 8 inches long, 32 inches wide and 28 inches deep, inside measurements.

Mr. Rank, after a short engagement with a Minneapolis museum, declined several offers of showmen, and preferred to live on his farm.

Roboken, N. J., Oct. 27.—For 54 years Dr. Charles Frederick Kroeh has been a professor, spending 52 of the years here at Stevens Institute of Technology.

In this time he has earned his A. M., Sc. D., among numerous other degrees, and the reputation of being one of the oldest and most highly esteemed educators in the country.

And never, never, except for an occasional stenographer, or somebody's private secretary, has there been a flutter of petticoats down its halls.

"Hello," said we to ourselves, "here's a veteran professor in a musty, venerable, old school. We'll tell him a few things."

"What," we demanded, seeking out Professor Kroeh in his office, "do you think of the flapper?"

Professor Kroeh settled his beard above his waistcoat and beamed.

LITTLE CHANGE ON WHEAT MART

Liverpool Falls to Reflect Yesterday's Setback in Marketing

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Price upturns at the opening of the wheat market today soon turned out to be transient. They were ascribed to the fact that Liverpool quotations failed to reflect the setback in values yesterday on this sale of the Atlantic. The opening, which ranged from a shade decline to 1/2 to 1/4 cent advance with December $1.07 1/4 to $1.11 1/2, was followed by a slight general gain and then a reaction to the same as yesterday's finish or lower.

Subsequently the market continued to weaken. It was estimated that 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, duty paid, has so far been bought to come into the United States chiefly for eastern mills. Close unsettled 1-4 to 3-8 cents to 1-2 to 3-8 cents net lower, December $1.06 1-4 to 3-8 to $1.06 3-8 and May $1.11 1-8.

Peanut Butter Container Is Price Variant

Fargo, Oct. 27.—Analyses of fifteen samples of peanut butter made by R. O. Baird, State Food Commissioner and Chemist and calculations from retail prices show that North Dakota consumers pay from fifteen to sixty-four cents per pound for practically the same product, depending upon the kind of containers in which it is purchased.

"Consideration must be given to the products put up in small glass jars, of course, as this naturally increases the price," the Food Commissioner reports. "The samples collected by the food inspectors showed the capacity of the containers to range from one and one-quarter to sixteen ounces, and in general, the larger the container, the smaller the retail price per pound."

"There was no adulteration detected in any of the samples analyzed. The nutritive calories per pound show peanut butter to be a valuable food product high in fuel value. The keeping qualities of peanut butter are very good. Samples that have been in the laboratory almost a year show no evidence of rancidity."

The number of samples for twenty-

PROFESSOR CHARLES FREDERICK KROEH

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT

Hoboken, N. J., Oct. 27.—For 54 years Dr. Charles Frederick Kroeh has been a professor, spending 52 of the years here at Stevens Institute of Technology.

In this time he has earned his A. M., Sc. D., among numerous other degrees, and the reputation of being one of the oldest and most highly esteemed educators in the country.

He DID know what a flapper was. We were crestfallen but endeavored not to show it.

"Well, then," we queried, "what about 'Yes, We Have No Bananas'?"

"That song," returned the professor, "is only slightly more silly than 'Sally in Our Alley,' and some others that I used to sing when I was a boy."

"Do you play Mah Jong?"

"The professor looked bored. 'I understand the rules of the game, but playing Mah Jong is more to my fancy.'"

"You attend the modern dances, of course?"

"Oh yes," said the professor, "not, you understand, that I take part in them any more. This jumping up and down like a wooden Indian is, to my mind, very poor taste. 'The Blue Danube' is my idea of a real dance."

We were getting desperate.

"How do you like," we queried, "this new 'la garconne' bob?"

The professor suppressed a yawn.

"Oh," he said, "you mean that peculiar hair dress, clipped short at the back and pulled out over the ears that the girls are wearing? The waitress who brought me my luncheon the other day had hers done that way and I must say it was quite becoming."

We made one last desperate effort. "Did you know," we demanded hoarsely, "that Fanny Rice had her nose altered?"

The professor rallied. "No!" he cried delightedly, "not really."

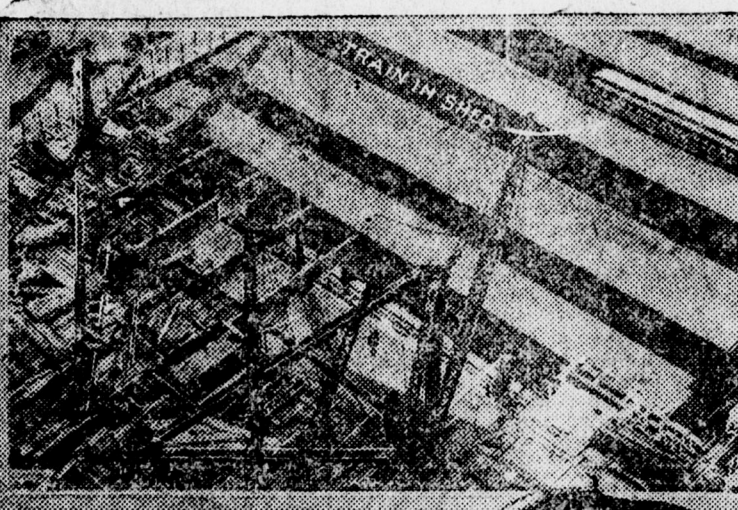

"Yes," we shouted. We cavorted. We capered. We beamed on the professor. At last we'd been able to tell him something!

MARKET NEWS LITTLE CHANGE ON WHEAT MART

Liverpool Falls to Reflect Yesterday's Setback in Marketing

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Price upturns at the opening of the wheat market today soon turned out to be transient. They were ascribed to the fact that Liverpool quotations failed to reflect the setback in values yesterday on this side of the Atlantic. On the other hand imports of Canadian wheat into the United States, duty paid, was said to be growing heavier. The opening, which ranged from a shade decline to 3/4 to 1/2 cent advance with December $1.07 1/4 to 1/2 and May $1.11 1/4 to 1/2, was followed by a slight general gain and then a reaction to the same as yesterday's finish or below.

Subsequently the market continued to weaken. It was estimated that 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, duty paid, has so far been bought to come into the United States chiefly for eastern mills. Close unsettled 1-4 to 3-8 cents to 1-2 to 5-8 cents net lower, December $1.06 1-4 to 3-8 to $1.06 3-8 and May $1.11 1-8.

Peanut Butter Container Is Price Variant

Fargo, Oct. 27.—Analyses of fifteen samples of peanut butter made by R. O. Baird, State Food Commissioner and Chemist and calculations from retail prices show that North Dakota consumers pay from seventeen to sixty-four cents per pound for practically the same product, depending upon the kind of containers in which it is purchased.

"Consideration must be given to the products put up in small glass jars, of course, as this naturally increases the price," the Food Commissioner reports. "The samples collected by the food inspectors showed the capacity of the containers to range from six and one-quarter to sixteen ounces, and in general, the larger the container, the smaller the retail price per pound."

"There was no adulteration detected in any of the samples analyzed. The nutritive calories per pound show peanut butter to be a valuable food product high in fuel value. The keeping qualities of peanut butter are very good. Samples that have been in the laboratory almost a year show no evidence of rancidity."

The number of calories for twenty-five cents of retail price of these products varied from 1,176 to 4,241, due almost entirely to the range in price, according to the figures in Mr. Baird's report. The nutritive calories per pound showed little variation among the fifteen samples, the extremes being 2,744 and 3,053.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

MR. HUGHES' REPLY
The blunt, straightforward reply of the American Secretary of State to British requests for assistance in settling Europe's troublesome problems leave no room for doubt as to the position of the United States. It lends no opportunity for European nations to resort to the fine language of diplomatic exchange and avoid the heart of the problem.

Mr. Hughes very plainly sets down his conditions for American participation. First, America has no desire to permit Germany to evade her obligations but regard must be had for Germany's capacity to pay and for the fundamental condition of Germany's rehabilitation. Second, such conference will be only advisory. Third, the question of interallied debt must be excluded.

Germany was beaten in the war and most of the civilized world exulted in the crushing blow dealt the Hohenzollern despotism. At the same time thoughtful people recognize the possibility of any monarchy being turned into such a state of mind as that of the people of Germany, if made the victims of clever and intensive propaganda for a score of years. American people do not desire that the war shall bring interminable misery upon the German people; her armies did not go to France for that purpose. Thoughtful people, too, recognize the selfish interest of the world in the economic rehabilitation of Germany. Her present chaos is affecting all of Europe. Only when she is making progress on the right road to recovery can Europe also prosper. Mr. Hughes recognizes this condition as well as stating the altruistic attitude of America. Any reparations conference, to be a success, must abandon the idea that Germany is to be forever rendered impotent; the reparations problem must be settled in such manner as to lend her a helping hand, while and at the same time exact from her the penalty of aggression in the World War.

Mr. Hughes, too, wisely declines to permit the debts of allied nations of the United States to be brought into the conference to befog the issue and to deprive the United States of the just settlement due her. He further states the position of this nation in making it plain that the United States acts in an advisory capacity only. This not only represents the attitude of the people of the nation who do not desire to be inextricably bound up in European quarrels, but also places the United States in a commanding and disinterested position, where she may exercise her best influence.

France, Belgium and Italy have accepted the invitation issued by the British for a reparations conference. The French government has accepted the position of the United States in principle. There appears for the first time in months some real hope of accomplishing the much desired settlement of the problem. It is to be hoped that the moral pressure of the United States together with the sad condition of Europe will result in an honest and able solution.

LOWER PRICES
The cost of living possibly may get a jolt downward as a result of the present condition of the oil industry. Things were going along merrily, prosperously, in the oil industry—when suddenly the drillers struck enormous gushers in California. The oil from these wells is exceptionally high in gasoline.

California now is producing 40 per cent—two-fifths—of the oil produced in the United States.

Very fine for the owner of the California well. But the owner of the well in other states is in a tight corner. His prices, on oil yielding less gasoline to the barrel, have been slashed time after time. The result is that the producing end of the oil business in general if in worse shape, as far as profits are concerned, than any other big basic industry—probably worse off than general farming.

As you probably know, oil production is, in the main, separate and distinct from refining. The pipe line companies and refiners let the small man take the chances at finding oil, then buy his oil—if he finds any—and set prices without consulting him.

How can this affect the general cost of living? Here's how: There are about 280,000 oil wells in America, and new wells are drilled constantly. So the oil industry consumes enormous quantities of iron and steel, especially pipe, also wire and manila cables and a great variety of manufactured goods.

Prices always are about as high as the buyer can pay. An oil industry, operating on a losing basis, can't pay former prices for supplies.

What'll happen? Unless oil prices rise again, prices of materials used by the oil industry will, by competition, fall. Once started, there's no telling where such a drop would stop, nor how many commodities it would affect.

TEA EXPORTERS
India captures from China the position of being the biggest tea exporting country in the world.

Back of this is a mighty oriental trade war. Chief thing that made China lose out was loss of her Russian market. Russians haven't been able to afford tea as much as formerly. It's a luxury.

Chinese are the best "traders" in the world. They'll regain their tea market. It'll take time, but a few thousand years are nothing to the patient Chinese mind. Watch them walk.

IRON PRODUCTION

Production of pig iron in the United States has slumped some since the middle of the summer, when all records were being smashed.

But the iron output still is over three times as big as it was at this time of year in 1920, during hard times. And it's a fourth more than in 1918, a typical pre-war normal year.

The outlook is good. We can't expect records to be broken month after month without some setbacks. Business comes in waves.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Nancy and Nick followed Mrs. Possum and her family toward the persimmon tree. Indeed they couldn't very well follow her without following her family, for her ten little 'possum kiddies were strung along her back and holding tight to her long tail like so many beads on a string. Mrs. Possum needed no baby-carriage, she didn't, or a go-cart.

By and by she stopped. "There is the tree," she said. "Those yellow things that look like oranges are persimmons and they should be extra fine for Jack Frost was around last night."

Before the Twins could answer a new voice said, "Here, Bill, we'll pick this tree next before any pesky 'possums get at it." And then there were heavy footsteps.

Misss 'Possum stopped. "Roni!" she commanded, sweeping all of her children off her back with one shake of her tail. In a twinkling they had scrambled off into the bushes, but Misss 'Possum never moved a step herself. She just closed her eyes and sank down to the ground and rolled over and never moved.

Nancy started toward her, but she was too late. The rascal had seen the little furry figure lying in the grass. "Look here, Bill," he called, giving poor Misss 'Possum a shove with his foot.

But Misss 'Possum never moved an eyelash. She lay huddled up in a little limp heap and never even breathed.

"Is she dead?" asked Bill curiously, coming up beside the man.

"Dead? Humph! No deader 'n I am," he answered. "You don't know 'possums, Bill. They're the best pretenders outside of story-books. They can play dead better 'n circus dogs. This 'possum's alive and kicking."

And he gave her another shove with his foot. But wary a little Misss 'Possum make! She picked

Hospital Romance Of Brakeman Ends In Happy Marriage

A romance that has been slowly developing in the Northern Pacific hospital at St. Paul, Minn., for the past eighteen months during which time the bridegroom was being attended by an attractive nurse culminated last evening in the happy marriage of Miss Edna Margaret Peterson of St. Paul, Minn., E. N. Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Schneider of Mandan, at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider of 517 Thirtieth street, Rev. S. F. Halford read the marriage service at 8 o'clock.

The story had its beginning in 1921 when Mr. Schneider, a brakeman on the Northern Pacific railroad for six years past, was badly injured at Judson when a freight car, which Mr. Schneider had unoccupied jumped the track, crushing him against the station platform. Mr. Schneider was rushed to the Northern Pacific hospital in St. Paul for medical treatment. It was found necessary to amputate both legs. Miss Peterson was assigned as special nurse.

While it wasn't a case of love at first sight with Mr. and Mrs. Schneider, according to friends who knew the couple, it developed quickly into a love match when the began taking the sick brakeman for outings as he began to show signs of improvement.

Mrs. Schneider, the daughter of Mrs. Marie Peterson of Kasota, Minn., and a graduate from the Eitel Hospital of St. Paul, Minn., has been engaged in nursing for about five years. She received her high school training in Kasota, Minn., later taking her hospital training.

Mr. Schneider who is well known in this vicinity received his education in the Mandan schools.

The marriage was followed by a very quiet wedding dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider's home. The bride couple expect to spend the winter with the bride's mother. While here Mr. Schneider will take a special course in accounting, for he prefers making his living in a store selling artificial limbs, positions with which he has been offered.

As the last gotten up and most artistic costume at the party was that of Miss Edna Rose, who was dressed to represent a bat according to the vote of the merry-makers.

Contests, stunts, solo dancing, readings, and music were the diversions of the evening. In the spread of gossip contest the winner was Miss Velma Nypen.

Collars and Neck Finishings Help to Soften the Neck Line

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

In Fashion's garden all sorts of pretty furbelows and gauds bloom all the time, winter and summer. In winter they even outdo their summer resort because winter brings the holidays and a catalogue of these pretty dress accessories might well be called "Suggestions for Christmas Shopping." So far the most popular things this season prove to be novelties in necklaces, bracelets, earrings, belts, gloves, bags, belts and neckwear.

The last is not by any means least; it might even hold its place if comparisons were recorded. So long as neck treatments of frocks remain as they are there will be a demand for collars and neck finishings of some sort, to soften the plain neck line is one trying and severe—it needs to be softened and refined. Collars and tabs of net or lace or fine embroidery, or of combinations of these mediums, are therefore important.

Three of the newest collars are shown in the illustration. At the top an epaulet collar, with cuffs to match, is made of net, with rows of val lace, slightly full, set on. The epaulet idea is novel and becoming, especially to slender women. Below this model, at the right, is one of many bertha collars. Lace tabs, tucked net and val edging compose it. The bertha collar appears with cape back edged sometimes alluded to as the waistline, and a popular style, with back and front pieces, leaves an opening on the shoulders, with the pieces developed with either round or square outlines. At the left of the picture a popular collar is shown, employing dotted net, val insertion and edging and plain net in a plaited frill. As a rule, collars are made without cuffs to match.

Gloves appear to be striving for a monopoly in fancy cuffs, both in street and sports models. The gauntlet cuff, both in fabric and suede gloves, rides a rising tide of favor and even knitted wool gloves, for winter sports wear, have taken up the idea of the fancy wrist and are making the most of it.

istie and thrilling sight he had ever seen staged for a photodrama.

"The Town That Forgot God" will be shown at the Capitol theater for a two days' engagement starting Monday.

Hard Times Send Scots From Home

Glasgow, Oct. 27.—Seventy thousand Scots, most of them wrenched away from home by unemployment, have emigrated since the first of this year, the majority going to Canada and the United States.

Tradesmen unable to make a good living at home compose a large part of the moving mass. Of skilled craftsmen, no longer able to find work in the industries that feed the Clyde, hundreds have gone hopefully westward—engineers, building trade artisans, iron and steel workers—highly skilled labor that Britain deeply regrets losing.

Not long ago an American touring the Highlands and the Lochs near Glasgow remarked to his Scottish host that it seemed a pity men had to pack up and leave such a beautiful environment, whose legends and traditions were rooted deep in their hearts.

"Aye, but ye canna live on scenery," said the Scot.

ROUMANIA IS MORE FRIENDLY TO RUSSIA

Threats of Invasion of Small Country Seem Ill-founded

Bucharest, Oct. 27.—Despite the reports frequently heard in Bucharest of an impending invasion of Red hordes across the Danube and down through the Rumanian plains, competent observers—both Rumanian and foreign—who have recently had opportunities to study conditions along the frontier seem to be agreed that relations between Soviet Russia and Rumania are now better than they have been at any time during the past four years.

In Bucharest at least, it is confidently believed that Russia's formal recognition of Rumania's right to the province of Bessarabia is imminent. At the same time, however, Rumania is not taking any chances by reducing her military strength, and, while definite information on this point is impossible to obtain, it is generally believed that there are not far from 100,000 Rumanian soldiers in Bessarabia, most of them being scattered along the more than 200 miles of frontier formed by the river Dniester.

While there are there primarily to stop possible Soviet raids into the rich granaries of Bessarabia, their main job at present is to keep back the swarms of refugees who try, often successfully, to cross the Danube into Rumania, many of them with the hope ultimately of getting to the United States.

The trade agreement between the two countries which has been under negotiations for several months, and toward which the commercial classes of Rumania have been looking forward with much hope, is slow in coming to a conclusion. A number of difficult points have been satisfactorily settled, but a hitch now seems to have occurred over the fact that the Soviets are apparently insisting that all trading must be between the Soviet government on the one hand and the Rumanian government on the other—thus practically forcing Rumanian recognition of Soviet Russia.

Hospital Romance Of Brakeman Ends In Happy Marriage

A romance that has been slowly developing in the Northern Pacific hospital at St. Paul, Minn., for the past eighteen months during which time the bridegroom was being attended by an attractive nurse culminated last evening in the happy marriage of Miss Edna Margaret Peterson of St. Paul, Minn., R. N., and Richard G. Schneider, R. N., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider of Mandan, at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider of 517 Thirteenth street. Rev. S. F. Halfyard read the marriage service at 8 o'clock.

The story had its beginning in 1921 when Mr. Schneider, a brakeman on the Northern Pacific railroad for six years past, was badly injured at Judson when a freight car, which he was pushing, jumped the track, crushing him against the station platform. Mr. Schneider was rushed to the Northern Pacific hospital in St. Paul for medical treatment. It was found necessary to amputate both legs. Miss Peterson was assigned as special nurse.

While it wasn't a case of love at first sight with Mr. and Mrs. Schneider, according to friends who knew the couple, it developed quickly into a love match when the began loving the sick brakeman for outings as he began to show signs of improvement.

Mrs. Schneider, the daughter of Mrs. Marie Peterson of Kasota, Minn., and a graduate from the Kite Hospital of St. Paul, Minn., has been engaged in nursing for about five years. She received her high school training in Kasota, Minn., later taking her hospital training.

Mr. Schneider who is well known in this vicinity received his education in the Mandan schools.

The marriage which was a very quiet affair was followed by a family wedding dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider's home. The bride couple expect to spend the winter with the bridegroom's brother. While here Mr. Schneider will take a special course in accounting for tie premar making his living in that way to working in a store selling artificial limbs, positions with which he has been offered.

Hallowe'en Party For Younger Set Is Jolly Affair

One of the delightful affairs for the "younger set" was the King and Queen Hallowe'en party given by the Cavell Girl Scouts at St. George's parish house on Third street last evening. Among the guests appeared a number of ghouls or prominent people, Romeo and Juliet, Blue Bird, Nero, Circe, Mary, Queen of Scotland, Alexander the Great, Captain Kidd, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy, Lot's Wife, and others equally prominent.

The parish house was elaborately decorated with owls, bats, Jack o'lanterns, and streamers of black and gold. Luncheon was served during the evening.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL. A man-made flood that will at least rival and probably surpass the greatest deluge in history will be seen in the William Fox special production, "The Town That Forgot God."

A whole town, built especially for the purpose of being destroyed by the torrent, is washed away. Everything is swept before it, houses, barns, trees, inhabitants of the village and livestock of all kinds, not to mention a half dozen cameramen who were swept from their platforms while the scenes were being made.

No city in history was as completely demolished as "The Town That Forgot God." Even Johnston, Pa., which was virtually destroyed by water on May 31, 1889, when a dam gave way, permitting the mass of water more than twenty feet in height to rush through the town, was not wrecked in as spectacular a fashion as this typical American village.

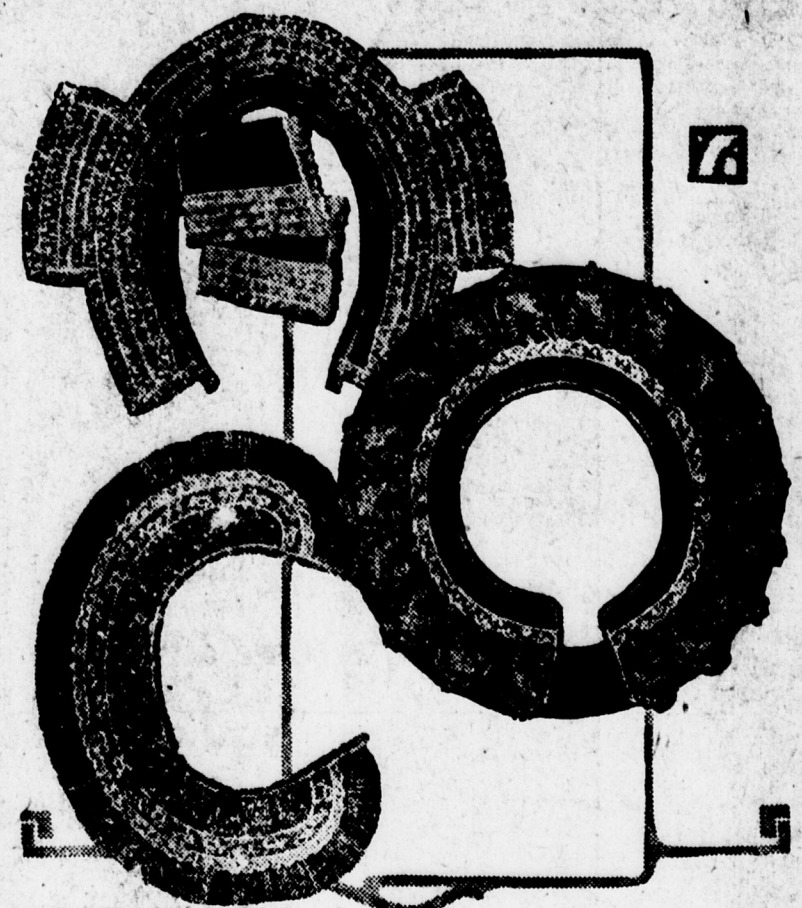

Even the most blasé motion picture producer attending the spectacle admitted that it was the most real.

Collars and Neck Finishings Help to Soften the Neck Line

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

In Fashion's garden all sorts of pretty furbelows and gimeracks bloom all the time, winter and summer. In winter they even outdo their summer record, because winter brings the holidays and a catalogue of these pretty dress accessories might well be called "Suggestions for Christmas Shopping." So far the most popular things this season prove to be novelties in necklaces, bracelets, earrings, belts, gloves, bags, belts and neckwear.

The last is not by any means least; it might even hold first place if comparisons were recorded. So long as neck treatments of frocks remain as they are there will be a demand for collars and neck furnishings of some sort, to soften the unadorned neck lines. The plain neck line is too trying and severe—it needs to be softened and refined. Collars and tabs of net or lace or fine embroidery, or of combinations of these mediums, are therefore important.

Three of the newest collars are shown in the illustration. At the top an epaulet collar, with cuffs to match, is made of net, with rows of val lace, slightly full, set on. The epaulet idea is novel and becoming, especially to slender women. Below this model, at the right, is one of many bertha collars. Lace tabs, tucked net and val edging compose it. The bertha collar appears with cape back extended sometimes almost to the waistline, and a popular style, with back and front pieces, leaves an opening on the shoulders, with the pieces developed with either round or square outlines. At the left of the picture a popular collar is shown, employing dotted net, val insertion and edging and plain val in a platted ruff. As a rule, collars are made without cuffs to match.

Gloves appear to be striving for a monopoly in fancy cuffs, both in street and sports models. The gauntlet cuff, both in fabric and suede gloves, rides a rising tide of favor and even knitted wool gloves for winter sports wear, have taken up the idea of the fancy wrist and are making the most of it.

MR. HUGHES' REPLY
The blunt, straightforward reply of the American Secretary of State to British requests for assistance in settling Europe's troublesome problems leave no room for doubt as to the position of the United States. It lends no opportunity for European nations to resort to the fine language of diplomatic exchange and avoid the heart of the problem. Mr. Hughes very plainly sets down his conditions for American participation. First, America has no desire to permit Germany to evade her obligations but regard must be had for Germany's capacity to pay and for the fundamental condition of Germany's rehabilitation. Second, such conference will be only advisory. Third, the question of interallied debt must be excluded.
Germany was beaten in the war and most of the civilized world exulted in the crushing blow dealt the Hohenzollern despotism. At the same time thoughtful people recognize the possibility of any monarchy being turned into such a state of mind as that of the people of Germany, if made the victims of clever and intensive propaganda for a few years. American people do not desire that the war shall bring interminable misery upon the German people; her armies did not go to France for that purpose. Thoughtful people, too, recognize the selfish interest of the world in the economic rehabilitation of Germany. Her present chaos is affecting all of Europe. Only when she is making progress on the right road to recovery can Europe also prosper. Mr. Hughes recognizes this condition as well as stating the altruistic attitude of America. Any reparations conference, to be a success, must abandon the idea that Germany is to be forever rendered impotent; the reparations problem must be settled in such manner as to lend her a helping hand, while and at the same time exact from her the penalty of aggression in the World War.
Mr. Hughes, too, wisely declines to permit the debts of allied nations of the United States to be brought into the conference to be of the issue and to deprive the United States of the just settlement due her. He further states the position of this nation in making it plain that the United States acts in an advisory capacity only. This not only represents the attitude of the people of the nation who do not desire to be inextricably bound up in European quarrels, but also places the United States in a commanding and disinterested position, where she may exercise her best influence.
France, Belgium and Italy have accepted the invitation issued by the British for a reparations conference. The French government has accepted the position of the United States in principle. There appears for the first time in months some real hope of accomplishing the much desired settlement of the problem. It is to be hoped that the moral pressure of the United States together with the sad condition of Europe will result in an honest and able solution.

LOWER PRICES
The cost of living possibly may get a jolt downward as a result of the present condition of the oil industry. Things were going along merrily, prosperously, in the oil industry—when suddenly the drillers struck enormous gushers in California. The oil from these wells is exceptionally high in gasoline.
California now is producing 40 per cent—two-fifths—of the oil produced in the United States.
Very fine for the owner of the California well. But the owner of the well in other states is in a tight corner. His prices, on oil yielding less gasoline to the barrel, have been slashed time after time. The result is that the producing end of the oil business in general is in worse shape, as far as profits are concerned, than any other big basic industry—probably worse off than general farming.
As you probably know, oil production is, in the main, separate and distinct from reducing. The pipe line companies and refiners let the small man take the chances at finding oil, then buy his oil—if he finds any—and set prices without consulting him.
How can this affect the general cost of living? Here's how: There are about 280,000 oil wells in America, and new wells are drilled constantly. So the oil industry consumes enormous quantities of iron and steel, especially pipe, also wire and manila cables and a great variety of manufactured goods.
Prices always are about as high as the buyer can pay. An oil industry, operating on a losing basis, can't pay former prices for supplies.
What'll happen? Unless oil prices rise again, prices of materials used by the oil industry will, by competition, fall. Once started, there's no telling where such a drop would stop, nor how many commodities it would affect.

TEA EXPORTERS
India captures from China the position of being the biggest tea exporting country in the world.
Back of this is a mighty oriental trade war. Chief thing that made China lose out was loss of her Russian market. Russians haven't been able to afford tea as much as formerly. It's a luxury.
Chinese are the best "traders" in the world. They'll regain their tea market. It'll take time, but a few thousand years are nothing to the patient Chinese mind. Watch them walk.
IRON PRODUCTION
Production of iron in the United States has slumped some since the middle of the summer, when all records were being smashed.
But the iron output still is over three times as big as it was at this time of year in 1920, during hard times. And it's a fourth more than in 1913, a typical pre-war normal year.
The outlook is good. We can't expect records to be broken month after month without some setbacks. Business comes in waves.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
Nancy and Nick followed Mrs. 'Possum and her family toward the persimmon tree. Indeed they couldn't very well follow her without following her family, for her ten little 'possum' kiddies were strung along her back and holding tight to her long tail like so many beads on a string. Mrs. 'Possum needed no baby-carriage, she didn't, or a go-cart.
By and by she stopped. "There is the tree," she said. "Those yellow things that look like oranges are persimmons and they should be extra fine for Jack Frost was around last night."
Before the twins could answer a voice said, "Here, Bill, we'll pick this tree next before any pesky 'possums get at it." And then there were heavy footsteps.
Misses 'Possum stopped. "Run!" she commanded, sweeping all of her children off her back with one shake of her tail. In a twinkling they had scrambled off into the bushes, but Misses 'Possum never moved a step herself. She just closed her eyes and sank down to the ground and rolled over and never moved.
Nancy started toward her, but she was too late. The twin had seen the little figure lying in the grass. "Look here, Bill," he called, crouching poor Misses 'Possum a shove with his foot.
But Misses 'Possum never moved an eyelash. She lay huddled up in a little lump heap and never even breathed.
"Is she dead?" asked Bill curiously, coming up beside the man.
"Dead? Humph! No deader'n I am," he answered. "You don't know 'possums, Bill. They're the best pretenders outside of story-books. They can play dead better'n circus dogs. This 'possum's alive and kicking. See."
And he gave her another shove with his foot. But nary a twitch did Misses 'Possum make! She might

The Tangle
ENTERED FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER.
When Ruth and I entered our apartment, dear little Marquise, and I took off my blouse Ruth exclaimed, "You've had your heads rearing and how sensible to have had them knotted."
I answered, "Yes, I am so fond of them I do not intend to lose any more." I lost one at a restaurant, you remember?
"Dear you know, Leslie," said Ruth, "I sometimes think that in spite of your denials one of those waters thought your heads were real and 'upped' one of them into his pocket."
It was a new idea to me, little Marquise and I immediately began to be afraid. What if Ruth's supposition were true, and the moment I heard her say it I knew it was true! I seemed to have an instinctive and prophetic feeling that I should hear from the penit again.
Ruth took the beads and let them trickle through her fingers as she admitted them.
Leslie, she said, "And I should hate to be the owner of a real string and know that they could make imitations that looked as well as this. Did you ever have them appraised and do you know where Alice got them? I haven't any money, you know, left from the crash, but if I had I should be tempted to buy some like them."
Quickly I took them from her hands and slipped them into my bag. As I did so I inadvertently dropped the roll of bills on the floor.
"For goodness sake, Leslie, where did you get all that money?" Ruth said and then as quickly said, "I beg your pardon. It was none of my business, but seeing so much surprised me."

PLAYING WITH FIRE
Senator Smoot gives "us good news when he tells us the next Congress can reduce taxes $500,000,000 a year if it doesn't pass a bonus bill. And yet we doubt that it would be the part of wisdom to ask Congress to make such a reduction. We are afraid Congress might do something quite different.
"Even if taxes are not reduced, the country will benefit by the economies indicated in Senator Smoot's announcement. A saving of about $300,000,000 was made in fiscal year, probably will show an even larger saving for our tax revenue is more than we need for running expenses. Administrative officials should attempt to pile up a surplus for use in retiring governmental obligations and thus reducing the government's interest payments. They should ponder a long while before asking Congress to cut the country's taxes.
The next Congress probably will be more radical than the last. It will show a greater tendency to block rule and special interest legislation. Accordingly it would be well to avoid reopening the tax question burdensome though the country finds the present taxes and especially the outrageous expenditures. In the same way, legislation affecting the railroads and the Federal Reserve System should be avoided. We don't want to give all the Brookharts a chance to throw their bombs.
The fact is that we're Congress-shy. We may be wrong, but the next Congress looks to us like a New Mexico broncho that has never known a saddle. Let us study this broncho from nose to tail, let us walk around and around him, before we try to ride him to the destination we desire; for otherwise he may fly off to the swamps of business depression.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

But there was a demand then for every grain of wheat that could be produced.
What could a government sell a corporation to accomplish in the face of a steadily increasing export of foodstuffs and with bumper crops over to permit Europe to reduce still further its imports from America? Economist summoned by Secretary Wilson in study conditions report that European wheat-harvesting power in this country will depend largely upon

THE GREAT SCOURGE OF HALF TRUTHS
By JOHN OAKWOOD
A soap-borser pointed at a great factory. "Who built that factory?" he yelled. "Who run the machines? Workmen! Who got the profits? Capitalists!"
The soap-borser told a half truth that amounted to a whole lie. His listeners did not know that that particular factory, typical of thousands of others, was a complete revelation of the lie—if only the other half of the truth were told.
It is true the factory was Capitalist—for a million dollars. The net profits gave annual dividends of 6 per cent, or $60,000, to the stockholders. All that was true.
But it was also true that the million dollar capital was divided up into ten thousand shares of $100 each. The ownership of these shares was distributed among about one thousand people. Several hundred of them were workmen in the factory. They were saving out of their weekly wages and buying shares on the installment plan. They were Capitalists.
It was likewise true that shares were also owned by workmen in other factories, by clerical workers and by small merchants. A good many were also owned by widows and orphans whose modest estates had been wisely invested for them by their bankers. They were Capitalists.
It was also true that the factory corporation had issued a million dollars in bonds to raise funds to buy the material and pay the wages of workmen to build the factory. These bonds were owned as investments not only by persons of wealth, but also by many people of moderate means who had saved out of their wages and salaries. They were Capitalists.
And it was also true that out of receipts of the factory, before a cent was taken to pay interest on the bonds, before a penny was used to pay dividends on the stock, a good many dollars were taken to pay wages to the workmen.
The workmen were Capitalists, too. They were investing their strength and their talents and their skill in the factory—they were getting their dividends out of its earnings as well as the stockholders and bondholders.

NO BOON IN CHEAP MONEY
One thing that has to be given up is the idea that cheap money is always good for business. Farmers want cheap money, business men want cheap money, stock speculators want cheap money, the U. S. Treasury wants to float government loans on cheap money, socialists, anarchists and old-line greenbackers want very, very cheap money. Everybody feels that when the money rate is shoved up it is an arbitrary damper on prosperity.
But we cannot have both a low rate on money and a stable level of prices. We can have one or the other—not both together for any length of time. A low rate of money means an inflated price level. A stable price level means a fluctuating rate of discount. That is, the public must learn to look at the price level instead of the bank reserves, as their measure of expectation for a rise or fall of the value of money.
Now this fact makes me feel that a mistake is made if we do not fully explain to the public the power already exercised by the bank rate and the Federal Reserve Board and Reserve banks. Our bankers and economists see the bad use that is likely to be made of political control of banking and currency and they try to make the people believe that so intricate a question must be left to experts.
As a matter of fact our present methods encourage the very thing we wish to avoid. We let everybody believe that low rates on money are necessary for prosperity and then when bank reserves run low in account of the effects of this belief, we are suddenly compelled to jump the rates to protect the reserves. We get both a cycle of prices and a cycle of bank rates, whereas, if the public understood that the rise of bank rates should not wait until bank reserves are low, but the rates should be advanced several months ahead for the very purpose of preventing a fictitious prosperity with its inflated price level, then the public might be maintained to support the administrative regulations which raise the rate at a time when there seems to be no need of doing it.—John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin.

SPIT BALL PITCHING GOES OUT OF STYLE

American League Should Boast Better Pitching in 1924 Than Present Season

ZAHNISER PROMISING

John Burns Appears Promising Recruit for Connie
Mack

By Billy Evans
For the past five years, or ever since the abolition of freak deliveries, including the spitball, pitching has been on the decline in both major leagues.

In addition to the many pitching reforms that were inaugurated about five years ago, came the lively ball.
The result was a batting spree in which the batsmen revelled and the pitchers suffered.

Pitching and batting seem to run in cycles, first the pitcher is supreme and then the batter hogs the spotlight. Once more the stock of the pitcher seems to be in the ascendency.

The American League should boast much better pitching in 1924 than the season just closed. Practically every club in the Johnsonian organization has developed one or more worth while young pitchers. A year ago the flock of pitching recruits was a very ordinary one, this year's offering appears to be far above the average.

Zahniser Looks Good
Take the Washington club for instance. In Paul Zahniser Manager Donie Bush has developed a right-hander who should win a good many games for the Nationals next year.
Zahniser came to the club in the middle of the season and after a slow start has hit a big league gait and done some excellent pitching. He has good speed, but a splendid curve ball is his best asset.

For several years Cleveland has been weak as to left-handers. Manager Speaker seems to have remedied this fault. In Joe Shaute and Jim Edwards he has developed two southpaws who should win consistently for the Indians next year.
Both show great promise.

Because of the all-star pitching staff of the New York Yankees, recruit pitchers have had but little chance to show on that club. However, in Roetger and Higgins, Manager Huggins has two young righthanders who look to have everything that a big league pitcher should have.

Makes Impressive Debut
In John Burns, secured from the Shreveport (La.) club of the Texas League, Connie Mack feels positive he has unearthed a most promising recruit. Burns is a right-hander who knows how to pitch. He hasn't the stuff of a Walter Johnson, but he mixes up his assortment in great style and should make good. He won two of his first three starts
after joining the Mackmen, beating Detroit and Washington and losing to Cleveland.

While Herman Pilletoe of Detroit failed to live up to his great showing of 1922, Syl Johnson, who was picked to star a year ago and failed, has hit his stride and should be a big help to Cobb next season. In addition the Tigers have landed a likely southpaw in Whiffell. In a game against the Yankees, which Detroit won, he allowed only one hit in six innings. In his next start against Cleveland he permitted Cleveland to register only two safe hits. Some pitching against two of the hardest hitting clubs in the American League.

It is conservative to say that the American League in the season just closed has developed a dozen pitchers capable of holding their own.
That means considerably more trouble for the batters next year.

CHANCE NAMED TO LEAD SOX

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Americans last season, and a former pilot of the Chicago Cubs, was selected to succeed "Kid" Gleason, as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Chance, famous as the "peerless leader" of the old Cub machine, came to terms with Harry Grabiner, business manager of the White Sox, after a long distance telephone conference. Chance, at his home in Los Angeles, accepted the conditions of the contract which will be formally signed when the club owners of the American League convene here in December for the annual meeting.

Chance made his name and fortune in baseball, when he managed the now-gone but not forgotten Cub machine—a machine that won four penants and two world championships in five seasons.

SHADE BEATS BILLY WELLS

New York, Oct. 27.—Dave Shade of California won the judges' decision over Billy Wells, welterweight champion of England, after 48
rounds of fighting in Madison Square Garden. Shade weighed 147 pounds and Wells 145.

The fight was one-sided and uninteresting. Shade taking virtually the end of 48 minutes and 52 sec-minutes and 15 seconds.

RODGERS WINS AN EASY BOUT

Minot, Oct. 27.—Stanley Rodgers of Minot, formerly of Bismarck, heavyweight champion wrestler of North Dakota, successfully defended his title here last night by winning in straight falls from Ray Gillis, police champ of Sioux City, Ia. Rodgers took the first fall in 29 minutes with

ANNUAL MATCH RACE?

New York, Oct. 27.—A race between the champion three-year-olds of England and America, such as the recent meeting between Zev and Papyrus, will probably be a regular feature in the future, according to local turf officials. It is also planned to enlarge the scope of the race to include three-year-old champions from France and other countries.

FOOTBALL IS POPULAR

Detroit, Oct. 27.—Football fans are turning out in greater numbers than ever this season. On a recent Saturday a total of 186,000 paid admission was recorded. Harvard and Holy Cross drew 20,000, Michigan and Ohio State, 15,000, and Princeton and Notre Dame, 25,000. Many other games drew far above normal for early season attractions.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Donie Bush has the distinction, if it may be called such, of being the only manager in the history of the game to lose his job after landing a second division ball club in a first division berth. Washington fans are much peevish over Owner Griffith's decision to get a new manager for 1923.

FIGHT BATTLE WITH WORDS OVER TANGIER

French Outgeneraled Germany in Getting Foothold in Morocco

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London, Oct. 27.—Without a shot being fired or a blow struck, a great battle has been fought here.
It has been a battle for empire. And very few people have known about it.

Although it involved so much, the contest was not staged on any grandiose scale. Just a few men, armed with bundles of manuscripts and maps, gathered in an obscure and cluttered-up office in the Foreign Office building, talked or a while and agreed to disagree. Up to now they have been deadlocked.

The bone of contention is the control of the city of Tangier in Morocco.

That doesn't sound very important,
but if you will get out a map you will see that a tip of Morocco juts out northward until only a narrow strip of water separates it from Gibraltar.

British Control

Now "Gib," that rocky point at the south of Spain, has for a hundred years been in British hands. In the old days its cannon dominated the narrow waters.

France never relished this. Spain didn't like it.

Back in the early nineteenth hundreds, France and Germany were both looking hungrily at Morocco with its vast resources. The French outgeneraled Germany and got the upper hand. Since the war, with Germany smashed, the French have become entirely dominant.

Nominally, Morocco has a sultan,
and the French are his advisers.
Really, Morocco is a French colony, to be more and more absorbed into the French system.

But from early days the Spanish laid claim to a "sphere of influence" on the northern coast. Only Tangier was excluded. Up to now it has been a sort of internationally governed city. The Moors rule it under the guidance of French,
British and Spanish officers.

Not Spain wants Tangier for its own. It would then have a soft-spot. On the other hand, the French say Tangier should be restored to its real master, the sultan of Morocco.

Which, as the English say, is pure
"eye-wash." Restored to the sultan, Tangier would soon be a French Gibraltar.

The French already have the world's biggest army. They are already talking about building a big submarine fleet. They already have so predominant a place in the air that the alarmed British are increasing their appropriations for military airplanes.

Now, if the French camped in Tangier, they would have a place where they could erect huge fortifications with high-power cannon.
They would have a jumping-off place for their airplanes. They would have a lair for their submarines.

That is why England insists that Tangier continue an international city.

HOPPE SHOWS HIM

Herewith you see Willie Hoppe, greatest of billiardists, demonstrating a deft maneuver for the enlightenment of Tadao Saganuma, 21-year-old Japanese billiardist, who has shown surprising skill at the game. Hoppe is more or less a pupil of Hoppe. The American has taken a great interest in the visitor and is helping to develop his game to championship form.

Not Every Mouse Can Scare an Elephant

There is a legend that elephants are afraid of mice. The contrast is amusing. It tickles the funny-bone and interests folks. Hence, it gains belief. Yet circus men will tell you that there are many safer places than an elephant's pen for a mouse bent on bullying.

But the fable lives as persistently as another fiction—the one that advertised goods cost more than goods not advertised. Here, too, the truth is the other way around.

As a matter of fact, manufacturers who advertise, increase the demand for their goods, which naturally increases their production. This means that each article they make is made for less money than otherwise would be possible. This in turn means that they can sell for less.

Merchants who advertise, bring crowds of people into their stores.
The more customers, the quicker the merchant's stock is sold, and the sooner his cash is available for reinvestment. All this means that he can afford to do business on a smaller margin of profit than the man who depends on fewer sales to pay expenses and give a profit.

If you want to buy economically,
buy advertised goods, and patronize
merchants who advertise.

Advertisements tell you where to get your money's fullest worth

SPIT BALL PITCHING GOES OUT OF STYLE

American League Should Boast Better Pitching in 1924 Than Present Season

ZAHNISER PROMISING

John Burns Appears Promising Recruit for Connie Mack

By Billy Evans
For the past five years, or ever since the abolition of freak deliveries, including the spitball, pitching has been on the decline in both major leagues.

In addition to the many pitching reforms that were inaugurated about five years ago, came the lively ball. The result was a batting spree in which the batsmen reveled and the pitchers suffered.

Pitching and batting seem to run in cycles, first the pitcher is supreme and then the batter hops the spotlight. Once more the stock of the pitcher seems to be in the ascendancy.

The American League should boast much better pitching in 1924 than the season just closed. Practically every club in the Johnsonian organization has developed one or more worth while young pitchers. A year ago the flock of pitching recruits was a very ordinary one, this year's offering appears to be far above the average.

Zahniser Looks Good
Take the Washington club for instance. In Paul Zahniser Manager Donie Bash has developed a right-hander who should win a good many games for the Nationals next year.

Zahniser came to the club in the middle of the season and after a slow start has hit a big league gait and done some excellent pitching. He has good speed, but a splendid curve ball is his best asset.

For several years Cleveland has been weak as to left-handers. Manager Speaker seems to have remedied this fault. In Joe Shauve and Jim Edwards he has developed two southpaws who should win consistently for the Indians next year. Both show great promise.

Because of the all-star pitching staff of the New York Yankees, recruit pitchers have had but little chance to show on that club. However, in Roettger and Fikras, Manager Huggins has two young right-handers who look to have everything that a big league pitcher should have.

Makes Impressive Debut
In John Burns, secured from the Shreveport (La.) club of the Texas League, Connie Mack feels positive he has unearthed a most promising recruit. Burns is a right-hander who knows how to pitch. He hasn't the stuff of a Walter Johnson, but he mixes up his assortment in great style and should make good. He won two of his first three starts after joining the Mackmen, beating Detroit and Washington and losing to Cleveland.

While Herman Pillette of Detroit failed to live up to his great showing of 1922, Syl Johnson, who was picked to star a year ago and failed, has hit his stride and should be a big help to Cobb next season. In addition the Tigers have landed a likely southpaw in Whitehill. In a game against the Yankees, which Detroit won, he allowed only one hit in six innings. In his next start against Cleveland he permitted Cleveland to register only two safe hits. Some pitching against two of the hardest hitting clubs in the American League.

It is conservative to say that the American League in the season just closed has developed a dozen pitchers capable of holding their own. That means considerably more trouble for the batters next year.

CHANCE NAMED TO LEAD SOX

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Americans last season, and a former pilot of the Chicago Cubs, was selected to succeed "Kid" Gleason, as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Chance, famous as the "peerless leader" of the old Cub machine, came to terms with Harry Grabner, business manager of the White Sox, after a long distance telephone conference. Chance, at his home in Los Angeles, accepted the conditions of the contract which will be formally signed when the club owners of the American League convene here in December for the annual meeting.

Chance made his name and fortune in baseball when he managed the now-gone but not forgotten Cub machine that won four pennants and two world championships in five seasons.

LEWIS HOLDS HIS TITLE

Kansas City, Oct. 27.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight champion wrestler, defeated John Turner of North Dakota in straight falls here last night. Both falls were effected with headlocks, the first coming at the end of 48 minutes and 52 seconds and the second at the end of 19 minutes and 15 seconds.

RODGERS WINS AN EASY BOUT

Minot, Oct. 27.—Stanley Rodgers of Minot, formerly of Bismarck, heavyweight champion wrestler of North Dakota, successfully defended his title here last night by winning in straight falls from Ray Gillis, police champ of Sioux City, Ia. Rodgers took the first fall in 29 minutes with a scissors and the second in 35 minutes with a toe hold.

ANNUAL MATCH RACE?

New York, Oct. 27.—A race between the champion three-year-olds of England and America, such as the recent meeting between Zev and Papyrus, will probably be a regular feature in the future, according to local turf officials. It is also planned to enlarge the scope of the race to include three-year-old champions from France and other countries.

FOOTBALL IS POPULAR

Detroit, Oct. 27.—Football fans are turning out in greater numbers than ever this season. On a recent Saturday a total of 186,000 paid admission was recorded. Harvard and Holy Cross drew 30,930. Michigan and Ohio State, 13,000, and Princeton and Notre Dame, 25,000. Many other games drew far above normal for early season attractions.

NAT FANS PEEVED

Washington, Oct. 27.—Donie Bash has the distinction, if it may be called such, of being the only manager in the history of the game to lose his job after leading a second division ball club in a first division berth. Washington fans are much peeved over Owner Griffith's decision to get a new manager for 1923.

WILSON IN COME-BACK

New York, Oct. 27.—Metropolitan fight circles are beginning to take Johnny Wilson seriously again. The former middleweight champion has been fighting in improved form. This is a navy year. You judge.

McKEE

This is a navy year. You judge so by reports, optimistic and encouraging, which emanate from the Annapolis campus. Last year the Navy lost a heart-breaking game to its traditional rival, the Army, when Smythe, quarterback, in the closing moments, returned a punt to the 10-yard line, and followed with a forward pass that ended the game. This year the Navy is said to be stronger in several important respects and in Matthews, center, McGee, quarterback, and Barchet, fullback, Coach Bob Feltwell has three bright grid-iron stars.

McKee and will probably be matched with Harry Greb in a title bout in the near future. Wilson recently scored an impressive victory over George Robinson of Boston, a tough negro performer.

Cricket Song Is Broadcast To Radio Fans

One of the most astonishing stories yet credited to radio is now being circulated among broadcasters all over the United States. This story concerns the successful broadcasting of a cricket's song by KJL, Los Angeles station, says an announcement received by the Corwin Motor Company.

This stunt was the result of an experiment with some new storage batteries which have just been installed at KJL.

Mr. G. G. Ormiston, operator of KJL, was just closing up the station after the first evening's program in which the storage batteries had been used. In a bunch of flowers in the studio, he heard a cricket chirping merrily and a bright idea struck him at that moment. Placing the flowers close to the microphone, he started the automatic piano playing very soft music. Then going into the operating room he listened in on the studio microphone and in a few moments the cricket started its song again. Switching on the announcing phone, he announced a special midnight concert kindly volunteered by Miss Cricket. Then the main microphone was switched on.

Over a hundred letters were received congratulating KJL on the novelty of such a program and the clearness with which the tiny cricket's chirp came through the air. The Willard Storage Battery Company, from whom Mr. Ormiston had obtained the storage batteries, had claimed that they would clear up the broadcasting to a wonderful degree, but Mr. Ormiston had never expected the results would be so perfect. KJL received one letter from New Zealand reporting on this novelty. This station had never received word before that its broadcasting was "getting out" so far.

French Outgeneraled Germany in Getting Foothold in Morocco

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London, Oct. 27.—Without a shot being fired or a blow struck, a great battle has been fought here. It has been a battle for empire. And very few people have known about it.

Although it involved so much, the contest was not staged on any grandiose scale. Just a few men, armed with bundles of manuscripts and maps, gathered in an obscure and cluttered-up office in the Foreign Office building, talked for a while and agreed to disagree. Up to now they have been deadlocked.

The bone of contention is the control of the city of Tangier in Morocco.

That doesn't sound very important, but if you will get out a map you will see that a tip of Morocco juts out northward until only a narrow strip of water separates it from Gibraltar.

British Control

Now "Gib," that rocky point at the south of Spain, has for a hundred years been in British hands. In the old days its cannon dominated the narrow waters.

France never relished this. Spain didn't like it. Back in the early nineteenth century, France and Germany were both looking hungrily at Morocco with its vast resources. The French outgeneraled Germany and got the upper hand. Since the war, with Germany smashed, the French have become entirely dominant.

Nominally, Morocco has a sultan, and the French are his advisers. Really, Morocco is a French colony, to be more and more absorbed into the French system.

But from early days the Spanish laid claim to a "sphere of influence" on the northern coast. Only Tangier was excluded. Up to now it has been a sort of internationally governed city. The Moors rule it under the guidance of French, British and Spanish officers.

But Spain wants Tangier for its own. It would then have a setoff "buffer" state. On the other hand, the French say Tangier should be restored to its real master, the sultan of Morocco.

Which, as the English say, is pure "eye-wash." Restored to the sultan, Tangier would soon be a French Gibraltar.

The French already have the world's biggest army. They are already talking about building a big submarine fleet. They already have so predominant a place in the air that the alarmed British are increasing their appropriations for military airplanes.

Now, if the French camped in Tangier, they would have a place where they could erect huge fortifications with high-power cannon. They would have a jumping-off place for their airplanes. They would have a lair for their submarines.

That is why England insists that Tangier continue an international city.

Not Every Mouse Can Scare an Elephant

There is a legend that elephants are afraid of mice. The contrast is amusing. It tickles the funny-bone and interests folks. Hence, it gains belief. Yet circus men will tell you that there are many safer places than an elephant's pen for a mouse bent on bullying.

But the fable lives as persistently as another fiction—the one that advertised goods cost more than goods not advertised. Here, too, the truth is the other way around.

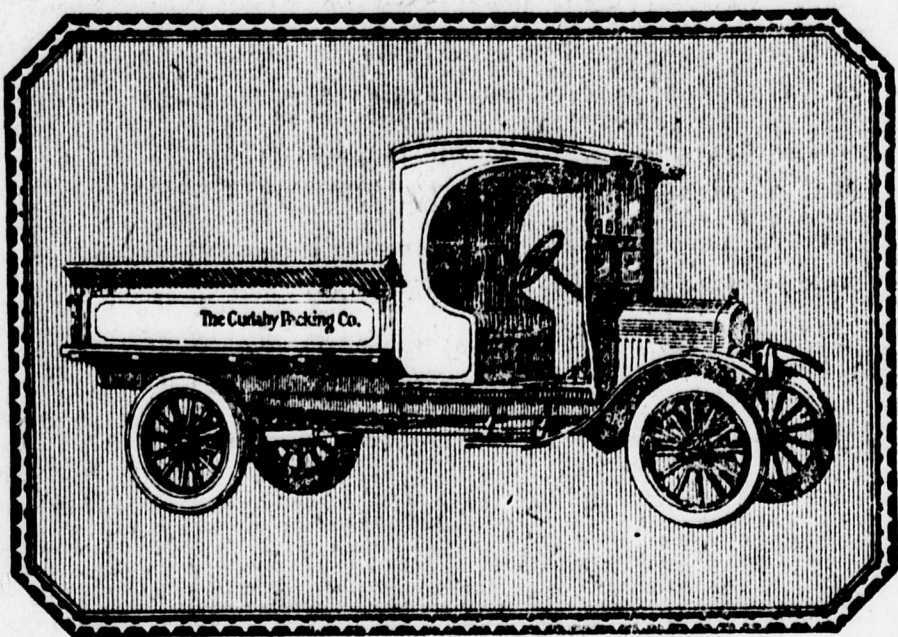

As a matter of fact, manufacturers who advertise, increase the demand for their goods, which naturally increases their production. This means that each article they make is made for less money than otherwise would be possible. This in turn means that they can sell for less.

Merchants who advertise, bring crowds of people into their stores. The more customers, the quicker the merchant's stock is sold, and the sooner his cash is available for reinvestment. All this means that he can afford to do business on a smaller margin of profit than the man who depends on fewer sales to pay expenses and give a profit.

If you want to buy economically, buy advertised goods, and patronize merchants who advertise.

Rate Boost Is Asked By N. P. Chairman

St. Paul, Oct. 27.—Adequate transportation in the northwest depends upon the readjustment of railroad rates according to Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific. Just returned from a tour of inspection of the lines, Elliott offered as a solution of the development problem an increase of two mills for hauling 2,000 pounds one mile.

"This insignificant amount will permit the carriers to go ahead with construction plans for the future and provide efficient service, he said. The present condition is unsatisfactory, he declared.

Taking the freight rates of 1913 as a basis of 100, he declared freight rates on the eastern lines were 175 while rates west of St. Paul to the Pacific are now only 128 as compared with 100 in 1913.

In spite of this, however, Elliott declared western railroads are rapidly recovering from government control and entering the winter in better condition than ever before.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSE DROPS IN CROP VALUES

Swedish People Make Hay in Slickers and Sou'westers

MAKE AMERICANS MARVEL

Malmö, Sweden, Oct. 27.—Swedish and Americans make hay in slickers and sou'westers. American tourists traveling in Sweden, and they are here in especially large numbers this year because of the Gothenburg exposition, never cease to marvel at the difficulties in which the men and women of Sweden gather their harvest.

Spring is late in Sweden. The summers are short, but the days are so long that grass crops ripen almost to the Arctic Circle. However, August and early September, when the grain and hay crops are cut, are generally rainy. This has been an unusually wet season and farmers have had great difficulty in saving their crops.

Farmers work in the fields rain or shine. It isn't uncommon to see men and women in the driving rain forking hay and stacking rye or oats sheaves so they will withstand the effects of the moisture.

Grainfields and hayfields throughout most of the farming sections of Sweden are provided with hay and grain racks, which have the appearance of hurdles used in a steeps chase. The hay and grain are hung on these racks to dry, as it is impossible in this climate to keep the grain and hay from rotting or heating if it is allowed to lie on the wet ground.

On some of the larger farms the hay and grain racks are built as high as 30 feet, and frequently it is necessary for the crop to hang a fortnight before it is thoroughly dried out.

Extremely heavy rains late in August this year crushed down much of the grain crop with the result that there will be great loss and the grain production is expected to be far below that of last year.

Sweden normally raises about 80 per cent of the grain necessary to provide its 6,000,000 inhabitants with bread. Its grain crop of breadstuffs consists of rye, oats and wheat. American wheat is imported generally to mix with the local grains used to make bread.

MINOT GIVEN T. R. STATUE

Minot, N. D., Oct. 27.—Minot has been awarded the bronze equestrian statue of Theodore Roosevelt by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, of Portland, Ore., Chairman James Johnson of the Minot committee on arrangements to receive the statue, announced here. The memorial figure will be dedicated to the children of North Dakota.

Mr. Johnson said in accordance with the expressed wishes of Dr. Coe, announcement of the selection of a North Dakota city for the memorial was enthusiastically greeted by civic association officials of Minot who have been competing with several other cities throughout the nation for the statue. Minot was given first consideration, Dr. Coe declared, because North Dakota was the state to which Theodore Roosevelt came as a young man, seeking restitution of his health. The statue is a replica of an impressive memorial presented by Dr. Coe to the city of Portland recently.

Term "True Blue" Is Centuries Old

How the new 1924 line of Oakland motor cars received the name "true blue" is a question asked everywhere by the public, states Ray V. Stair, of Stair & Pederson, Oakland distributors.

The answer is interesting. In order to enhance the artistic appearance and individuality of the Oakland cars produced by the pleasing body lines and top construction it was decided to finish all the bodies in color. As a result, the Oakland is the only car in its price class today that is furnishing standard bodies in other than black, making the cars distinctive and different from all other cars in the same class.

The second reason was that the phrase "true blue" most adequately described the line. The phrase appears to have originated in the seventeenth century and to have been used later in the writings of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott. The significance of "true blue" is faithful, staunch, real, unwavering, genuine, sterling; also it has stood for loyalty, fidelity and a spotless reputation.

Thus for nearly three centuries the expression "true blue" has signified that which has been tried and found to be absolutely reliable, steadfast and honest. The Oakland Motor Car Co. had been designing and testing this new model for a period of approximately three years before it was placed in production and believes that the new line has been so thoroughly and completely planned and tested as to merit the title "true blue."

The standard Oakland cars are finished in Holland blue striped with red on the heading around the body and a circle of red around the hub caps. Only the fenders on the open bodies and the fenders and upper parts of the closed bodies are finished in black.

The Sport models are painted a special Oakland light blue, with an orange stripe on the heading around the body and the louvers of the hood. The wheels are painted to match the body and are striped in orange. (The slogan appears on these models is further carried out by the upholstery, which is of Spanish leather.)

Town Refuses Animal As Fee

Reichenbach, Silesia, Oct. 27.—Barter and exchange have replaced paper marks very largely in Germany, but this town was recently stumped when it was offered an elephant and a lion in payment of taxes. A circus which had played here did not have money enough to pay the municipal license fees and the manager offered to turn over the best animals in his menagerie to settle the debt. The town authorities declined the elephant immediately, but they debated some time about the lion, as they conceived the idea it might be used as the nucleus for a zoological garden. After they had consulted the animal's keeper and found out how much meat he eats they decided to put off the zoological garden until food gets more plentiful. Finally the manager compromised with the bailiff and his aids by giving them a car in satisfaction of their claim.

"Slack Filled" Packages To Be Combated

Fargo, Oct. 27.—"Slack filled" packages of food products are the next fraudulent devices to go into the rubbish pile formed when North Dakota first started enforcing food regulations, is the announcement of R. O. Baird, State Food Commissioner and Chemist.

"The principal offenders in this respect in the past were the manufacturers of vinegar and alcoholic liquors who used bottles with inverted cone-shaped bottoms to give the impression that the contents of the bottle was much more than was actually the case," declares Mr. Baird. "This practice was stopped some years ago, but it evidently gave an inspiration for manufacturers of spices and some other food products, who are selling packages with as little as twenty per cent of what the container will actually hold with the plain object of deceiving the consumer.

"The state regulation declares an article of food to be misbranded, if, in package form, the package be not filled with the food it purports to contain, irrespective of whether the quantity of the contents be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package in terms of weight, measure or numerical count."
